Editor's note . . . . .	i
Foreword: Greater Minnesota Can Make Minnesota Even Greater . . . . . Gov. Tim Pawlenty Success doesn't happen overnight or by accident. It's the result of good ideas, hard work and strong values.	iii
Toward a Logical, Equitable and Successful Learning Experience for All . . . . . Lee Warne, Minnesota Rural Education Association Education in rural Minnesota has been a model for the state, but there are circumstances and trends that threaten that success.	1
Making the Old Economy the New Economy . . . . . Doug Peterson, Minnesota Farmers' Union Agriculture is one of the foundations of Minnesota's economy, but while it holds great historical value, it also has great potential for the future if we pay attention to world trends.	11
What the Next Governor Needs to Know About Minnesota Agriculture . . . . . Chris Radatz, Minnesota Farm Bureau Minnesota's agricultural sector can remain strong if government and ag can work together.	15
Minnesota's Rural Health Care: There is no 911 to Call . . . Steve Perkins, Minnesota Hospital Association Health care in rural Minnesota is in crisis, especially in its smallest towns, but there are measures that can be taken to ensure safe and healthy communities into the future.	21

Rural Minnesota Cities at Risk:
State Leaders Can Take Steps to Curb the Trend . . . . . 41
Jim Miller, League of Minnesota Cities
Deep budget cuts are putting rural cities at risk for even the most basic services, but this doesn't have to be the future.

Rural Minnesota and the Great Recession:
A Look at St. Cloud and Beyond . . . . . 51
King Banaian & Rich MacDonald, St. Cloud State University
St. Cloud and the surrounding counties are something of a microcosm of Minnesota. The authors look at the results of the annual survey to examine how the economies of St. Cloud and the communities around it fit together.

Memo to the Next Governor of Minnesota:
Greater Minnesota is Valuable, Vulnerable and
Worthy of Public Investment . . . . . 69
Dane Smith, Growth & Justice
While Greater Minnesota may cost more in public funds, the metro area — and rural residents themselves — should not be in such a hurry to write rural areas off as expensive and needy.

There are Laws and There are Laws . . . . . 91
Brad Finstad & Marnie Werner,
Center for Rural Policy & Development
In a state the size of Minnesota, with as diverse and dispersed a population as we have, policies set in St. Paul can have unintended consequences, but we can do something about it.
